Monday Dress Up for Diwali

Hi Ladies,

Next week we will celebrate Diwali, Which is a Hindu festival of light.

Please feel free to wear any cultural outfit from your backgrounds or vibrant colours to work on MONDAY.

And a reminder I will be on leave from tomorrow Thursday 9th November returning Monday 20th November.

Tanda post to team with weekly warp up messages.

Weekly rap

Hey Team,

Firstly, I wanted to say how wonderful all your rooms look, not only myself but the families love how the decorations and activities you have done this week. We have had a lot of positive communication from the families over the week.

As the weather is getting warmer in the afternoons, I would like the rooms opened early in the morning for drop off period, discuss with the room next to you about having one environment open until staffing permits. I understand this may not always be possible if staff are absent. I believe this will also support the big energy we see that some children have after being dropped off. Ensure outdoor check has been completed thoroughly first please.

Setting up provocations and having the children engaged while outside will support supervision and potentially reduce the number of incidents that have been happening. We want to see you all engaging with the children outside, having fun, have a laugh and enjoy the moments! Remember your supervision points and communicate if you need to move from that spot.

When completing handovers with families remember to sandwich the day, the parents do not want negative feedback or for the family to feel like the child is 'naughty' all the time.

Storypark posts with ideas from the educational leader

Hi Girls, just wanted to share little thing extra you could do for the children Transitioning in the other room.

I did Graduation certificate for the Babies with a mini bubbles and chocolate. Of course be mindful of children's Allergies.

Messages from Bev on story park about effective use of non-contact time

Announcement

Created by Bev Raghwani from Educators Space - 11 Oct

Hi everyone,

Sanjina has just sent me the program checks and I just wanted to jump on and say well done to all of you, its great to see lots of wonderful input from even our newer educators, your input is greatly appreciated.

A quick message to all but specifically the room leaders. Please ensure that when Sanjina gives you notes throughout the term when completing her weekly checks, that you action the changes that she has recommended. This is to avoid having too much to fix up at the end of term which some of you may be dealing with now. ...
